Administrative Review

--Project pro forma review

Project proformas submitted for administrative review must identify income and expense projections on an annual basis for a minimum five-year to a maximum eleven-year period. If you expect a reversion of the asset after a holding period please include that information in your pro forma, as well. Check with City staff to determine the time period needed for the proforma. Identify all assumptions (such as absorption, vacancies, debt service, operational costs, etc.) that serve as the basis for the pro formas. Two sets of proformas are to be submitted; the first set should show the project without TIF Assistance and the second set with TIF assistance.

--Analysis of financial need

Each applicant must include financial analyses that demonstrate the need for the TIF assistance. Two analyses must be submitted: one WITHOUT TIF assistance and one WITH TIF assistance. The applicant must indicate the minimum return or profit the applicant needs to proceed with the project and the rationale for this minimum return or profit. The analyses will necessarily differ according to the type of project that is being developed. Per City TIF policy, internal rate of return will be analyzed to ensure that the City is making a “but for” investment in the project.

Open files/docket review

The City will hire a consulting law firm to do a search of state and national legal databases to determine if there are any open court cases of lawsuits against the developer and the development entity.

Judgement and lien search

The City will hire a local title company to conduct a judgement and lien search to see if there are open judgements or liens against the developer and the development entity.

Detailed internet search

The City will hire a consulting law firm to do a thorough and specialized search of media articles and information related to the developer and the development entity and report the findings to the City.

Certified financial document review

For projects that require bonding or rely on the financial strength of the developer, the City will hire a consulting financial consultant to review the certified financial statements of the developer and the development entity. A report will be issued to the City on the financial capacity of the organization to finance the proposed development.

Bond counsel review

For projects that cause the City to bond for infrastructure or project expenses, the City will hire bond counsel to review the project and verify that the developer’s financial capacity is such that the City can reliably bond for the requested improvements and be assured that the bonds will be repaid as a result of the investments made by the developer. A report will be issued to the City on the worthiness of the bonds to be financed by the City.
